

John Ennis, IBM Business Development, Board of Advisors – Luke's Wings

John Ennis is with IBM, serving as a key member of its Business Development Team with a focus on Software Management for the US Department of Defense and Intelligence Agencies. Prior to this employment, he was with Lockheed Martin as a member of its International Business Development Organization.

While an Active Duty Naval Officer, John last served as Chief Speechwriter to the Deputy Chief of Naval Operations at the Pentagon, after having completed Two Sea Tours as a Surface Warfare Officer in the US Navy. In this capacity, he was deployed to the Persian Gulf onboard the USS BULKELEY and participated in extensive multi-national operations.

During his time in the Washington area, he has been an active advocate of Luke's Wings, serving primarily within the auspices of its broad community outreach programs. Mr. Ennis is an unfaltering supporter of veterans' care.

Mr. Ennis graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 2002 and currently resides in Annapolis.
